

VA Disability Claim Suggested Documents

Hi! Would you like to be as prepared as possible before meeting with a Service Officer or Claim Consultant to file your VA Disability Claim? Here's what you can gather in order to make your claim appointment as effective and efficient as possible.

Required:

- DD214 or any separation documents/proof of service you have

Highly Recommended:

- Any previous VA decision letters, if you've applied previously
- Medical records or name and address of your medical providers
- Marriage certificate
- Divorce decree
- Dependent social security numbers, birth dates, and locations

Please reach out to your accredited VFW Service Officer or Claim Consultant prior to meeting about any other documents that might be necessary. Also, don't worry if you don't have everything on hand; having a DD214 is a great start and we can work together to develop your claim from there.
